Pay your poll tax.

During recent years there has been considerable agitation and some impressive successes in repealing what some now choose to call a penalty on citizenship, but the fact remains that a Poll Tax is still demanded by the Constitution of Texas and by its exercise free men have a voice in government.

Until such time as the poll tax is either abolished or modified in cost, we Texans, must pay and will gladly pay, for our privilege to vote under the law. Here we make no Attempt to argue about the merits or demerits of abolishing the poll tax. Rather do we add our voice to the urgings of others that every qualified voter pay their poll tax.

We are accustomed to speaking of the odd years as off political periods. The truth is that the year nor time is no respector of the privilege and the duty of voting. Elections are continually being called on "off political years," and some of them decide some of the most vital issues concerning our liberties, our conceptions of a free society and whats more the all important question of taxes.

Let us not be lulled into thinking that since no primaries are up in 1947 that we do not need a poll tax. There will be elections and you will want to vote. It is your duty to vote. You cannot exercise the right of ballot without your Pall Tax. It is there, fore important that you go at once —before the deadline January 31 midnight and arm yourself with the recognized weapon with which to make your voice heard in the orderly process of selection an ddecision. Pay your poll tax.

When the constitution of the United States was written certain benefits and rights were assured the individual to safeguard him from any possible rise of a despot. One, and the most important, of those rights is the opportunity to direct the course of government by ballot.

Through polls in the United States the voice of the individual can be mangnified millions of times until it represents the actual voice of a nation. The tones of that voice, the decisions it makes and the magnitude of its expression set the course of more than seven million people. The very existence of that voice makes the US government a people's government.

Yet, with this door of liberty open, too often the voice isn't strong enough to assert itself. Men and women of the United States are often content to let others make the decisions for them at the polls. Consequently, pressure groups and single-minded organizations have been able to promote their one-sided and often selfish idealism through the apathy of the average voter.

The phrase, "The Right to Vote", has been overworked in this country. The word "right" suggests that it is a matter of choice with the voter, a benefit to use if he chooses. The phrase should be "The Duty to Vote!"

If the government of the United States is to continue as a peoples' government, the people must take an active part. Voting, sharing in the decisions of government is one of the duties necessary in wearing the cloak of democracy. To vote does not merely denote the casting of a ballot, but it indicates the individual investigation and thought that precede the well grounded decision marked on the ballot.

One more week exists in which the people of this area can register to vote and pay thir poll tax. In order to assure the continuation of democracy it is the imperative duty of the citizens in the area to register for the polls. If that duty is neglected citizen has forfeited his right to be critical of the government that ensues.—Bryan Eagle.

LIVESTOCK LARGEST ITEM SURVEY SHOWS

Farm income in Milam county in 1945 was nearly six million dollars according to the census report just released by the Department of Agriculture, a copy of which has reached The Herald through the courtesy of Congressman Poage.

There are no estimates available for the income for 1946 but due to livestock prices, it is estimated the income will be larger than that of 1945. The exact figure for 1945 is $5,966,075.

The total number of farms reporting are 3224. The number of farms in Milam county have been reduced about 40 per cent since the depression years and the government farm program. The statistics reveal that before the era of support prices and farm subsidies there were some 5000 farms in Milam county.

By far the greater source of income are the average farms of the county. Farms reporting an income of from $1500 to $2500 accounted for $1,250,000 of the income and farms with earnings of from $2500 to $4000 added an additional $1,149,000. In this group are 1014 farms.

Only 50 farms were in the ten thousand income bracket and 49 reported an income in excess of ten thousand dollars. These two groups accounted for substantially one and a half million dollars of the total income from farming in 1945.

Thirty-three farms are listed in the bracket of income up to $20,000 and 16 farms are in the bracket with more than $20,000 income. These figures clearly indicate that the smaller farms due to their greater number Hers is the atmosphere of the eastern finishing schools, the European spas, financed by her doting father, a tycoon and empire builder portrayed by Reinhold Schunzel.

But from the west side comes riding a dashing and virile Lochinvar out of the west, played by William Elliott. With him rests the responsibility of seeing that the mails entrusted to the newly formulated Pony Express system get safely to their destination, unhampered by fire and flood, hostile Indians and the molesting rival stage lines.

Joseph Kane directed the film, which is described as a historically accurate documentary piece as well as first rate entertainment in the bargain.

Gail Patrick portrays the grasping and avaricious young second wife of the Pony Express magnate, who is ultimately destroyed by her own cupidity.

Joseph Schildkraut portrays the owner of a rival stage line, who will stoop to any infamy to see that the Pony Express does not go through.

Donald Barry has an important supporting role, along with Andy Clyde, Raymond Walburn, Russell Hicks, William B. Davidson, Paul Hurst, Charles Judels, Stuart Hamblen, Byron Foulger and Pierre Watkins.

Fat Jobs, Solicialization and Public Spending

EDITORIAL FROM MINERAL WELLS INDEX

People are watching the new Congress with a great deal of interest—and with a change to a Republican majority, will they get down to the vital business of considering ways and means to reduce government expense, establishing a long range program of bond retirement and eventually cut taxes? Or were all the recent campaign talks about good government, getting rid of burecrats, surplus employees, wild spending and the trend for a socialized country just a "bait" for some votes—and nothing more.

With the recent announcement by Claude E. Wickard, of Washington, administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration, of the millions that are to be allotted or loaned to electric cooperatives, and more especially the $5,200,000 additional funds loaned to the Brazos River Transmission Electric Cooperative, of Waco, to build transmission lines and steam electric plants, just one of the socialized grants of the past few weeks, it is about time that Congress took a look at what is perhaps one of the least necessary federal extravaganzas—the government-subsidized, tax frees electric systems which dot the country from east to west and north to south.

A transmission co-op should not be confused by the reader with the distribution cooperative. Everybody, even the private utilities, are 100 per cent for the various distribution cooperatives, and for getting power to the farmer and rural residents. But the transmission coops now showing up, is somewhat of a "middle man," asking for money to build parallel lines and competitive steam plants, so that they might sell and transmit electricity to the various distribution co-ops—and it is for this purpose that the $5,200,000 has just recently been allotted by the federal government.

And what was the excuse of Mr. Wickard for the grant—that there was an acute power shortage in the area, and that private utility companies were not able to give the service to the distribution co-ops—hence the necessity for government money to be allotted for plants in competition to free enterprise. It is a well known fact, and one to be proud of, that all during the war years, when electric energy was drawing the greatest demands, that on the lines of the Texas Power & Light Company, or the Texas Electric Service Co., in whose territory the new transmission co-op line is contemplated, there was never a power shortage—and at all times there was a surplus available—and that the two power companies were actually letting the power pool in other states, including TVA, have power from the lines of the TP&L and TESC.

Neither has there been a lack of service to the rural communities by these companies, willingness to build lines as fast as materials and labor are available—and supplying electricity to distributive co-ops at a cost even less than is being charged them by two of the largest transmission co-ops of the country—the TVA and the LRCA—and less than charged by the Brazos River Transmission Co-

Sam Hackney and the missus just returned from a trailer trip around the country. They're tired, and glad to be home, but mighty impressed with what they saw.

As Sam reports—every section has something different; a different way of talking; different tastes in food and drink; different laws and customs. But bigger than all these differences is the American spirit of tolerance that lets us live together in united peace.

"Of course," says Sam, "you run into intolerance from time to time. Individuals who criticize another's right to speak his mind; enjoy a glass of beer; or work at any trade he chooses. But those are the exceptions—and we're even tolerant of them!"

From where I sit, more of us ought to make a trip like the Hackneys — to realize firsthand how America is bigger than its many differences ... how tolerance of those differences is the very thing that makes us strong.

"Plainsman and Lady" Story of Fabled Pony Express; Opens Thurs.

Fabled in song and story, and revered in every American schoolboy's history text, the Pony Express stands as a symbol of one of the most glamorous eras in the American scene.

Republic has drawn upon this era for the subject matter of its new extra-budgeted outdoor film, "Planisman and the Lady," which is scheduled to open Thursday at the Cameron Theatre for two days engagement.

The story is set in St. Joseph of the 1850's—a town of two personalities. Only a tenuous stretch of railroad track divides the genteel and decorous east side of the town from the roistering, raucous west side.

From the east side comes Ann Arnesen, portrayed by Vera Ralston. are producing the major part of the total.

High prices of livestock has been responsible for a larger engagement in stock farming. It was estimated recently that there are some 50 thousand head of livestock in Milam county. According to the 1945 census the sale of livestock brought $1,597,142. This is hardly a fair estimate of the total, some believe. Since the county is one of the leading feeder areas in Texas livestock sold from 29 farms accounted for $789,148 of the total income from livestock. How well was livestock distributed in the income bracked is noted from the fact that farms reporting from $1500 to $10,000 livestock income accounted for almost $650,000 of the total income from sale of livestock. A total of 482 farms are listed as exclusive livestock farms.

The report on poultry is vague and it is clearly short of the total known to have been derived from this type of farming. The total income from poultry farming is listed at $371,865. Seven farms account almost $70,000 of the total.

Farm values have increased over two million dollars since 1940. The total value placed on the farms in 1945 was $17,519,602. More than 600 farms went out of cultivation in 5 years, or since 1940. There were a total of 3288 farms in 1945. There were 657,280 acres in farms and of this amount 81.2 was under cultivation a slight increase over 1940. Quaker Oats Company Offers Premiums With Mother's Oats Here

Dinnerware, styled by master craftsmen, now comes in premium packages of Mother's Oats on sale at local groceries—this is the message of The Quaker Oats Company to housewives. A cup and saucer, breakfast bowl, dinner plate, or other dinnerware is included with each package of the oatmeal. Housewives can add to their dinnerware sets with each premium package.

Modern and graceful in design, the dinnerware is notably substantial. Also substantial is nutritious Mother's Oats, voted best-tasting cereal in America in a recent nationwide survey. Oatmeal leads all other natural cereals in Vitamin B1, protein, food energy, and iron; and Mother's Oats has for years been a favorite of mothers' whose chief concern is energy-giving breakfasts for their children. Aside from its breakfast cereal role, oatmeal also serves as an ingredient in cookies, muffins, and breads. Recipes for using oatmeal in baking are printed on each package of Mother's Oats.

MUSE MOTOR COMPANY ANNOUNCES NEW BUICK

Flint, Mich.,—Buick today announced its 1947 model cars in three series and nine body types featuring graceful modern styling, a new wing-tip grille, "silent zone" body mounting and numerous mechanical improvements—all resulting in a more outstanding performance, according to the Muse Motor Co., local dealer.

Harlow H. Curtis, Buick general manager and vice president of General Motors, said Buick's 1947 cars show the distinctive, functional styling developed by a staff of design engineers whose work has set the automotive industry's style pattern for years to come.

"Over the years", Curtice said, "Buick has consistently developed its cars to be distinctive in appearance as well as durable in use. We are proud to offer the 1947 Buick recause of what we know is in it in ability, easy handling, in comfortable ride and in quality of workmanship and materials."

Curtice said Buick began production of 1947 models January 13 after a brief shutdown for inventory. Initial output averaged more than 1,100 cars daily.

"We built 158,728 of our 1946 model cars," Curtice said, "and our production plans call for a very substantial increase in output of 1947 models. The quantity will be determined by the availability of the necessary raw materials and fabricated parts from our various sources. Only by full productivity can we meet the heavy demand created by the wide public acceptance of Buick's post-war cars."

Contributing to the new Buick's exterior beauty are the neat, flowing lines of sweeping airfoil fenders, a massive front end with a new, more handsome grille, and the low, roomy, streamlined body by Fisher. Its lively performance, easy handling and smooth ride stem from scores of proved Buick engineering developments, including the powerful "fire-ball" valve-in-head straight eight engine, full-length torquetube drive, all-coil springing, and broad-rim wheels.

Buick's "silent zone" body mounting, a system of mounting body to frame in which all metal-to-metal contacts are eliminated and mountings are located at carefully determined points on the frame, provides a more effective wall of insulation against vibration and road noise. Other features include noiseless windshield wipers, a venti-heater which provides cool air in summer and thermostat-regulated warm air and windshield defrosting in winter, wrap-around bumpers, flashway direction signals, sealed beam headlamps, and dual air trumpet type horns.

The 1947 line of Buick cars, Curtice said, will reap the full benefit of the cumulative results of many years of scientific resarch, engineering product development and improvement in manufacturing processes by a large staff of experienced Buick engineers and technicians.

One phase of this long-range product development activity, he explained, is Buick's extensive post-war expansion and modernization program comprising more than a dozen new buildings for additional manufacturing, assembly, foundry, forge, storage and shipping operations. In addition, Curtice said, upwards of 2,500 new machines have been purchased and installed in Buick plants to achieve highest quality in manufacturing operations.

Here are the 1947 Buick series cars, together with body styles:

Series 70 Roadmaster, 129-inch wheelbase: six passenger, four-door sedan; six passenger, two-door sedanet; six passenger convertible with automatic top, front seat and window controls.

Series 50 Super, 124-inch wheelbase; six passenger, four-door sedan; six passenger, two-door sedanet; six passenger convertible coupe with automatic front seat, top, and window controls; and six-passenger Estate Wagon.

Series 40 Special, 121-inch wheelbase; six passenger, four-door sedna; six passenger, two-door sedanet.

Mothers Club Organize Child Psychology and Family Relations Study

Attendance was large for the organization meeting of the Child Psychology and Family Relations Study Group sponsored by the Mothers Club and directed by Mrs. Virginia Sharborough of Austin, Parent Education Sepcialist of the University of Texas. The meeting held in the First Methodist Church last Friday, despite the inclement weather, was opened by Mrs. Fred Reno, president of the Mother's Club and Mrs. O. B. Harden introduced the speaker. The second meeting of the series will be held in the church again on Thursday, January 30 at 2 p. m. when the topic will be "Educating for Better Human Relations."

Mrs. Sharborough in discussing "Why Children Behave as they do", brought in behavior problems confronted by adults with the young from infancy through adolescence and also brought in problems of home life.

Though the Mothers Club is composed of mothers of pre-school and early school age, the study course is not limited to the younger child's problems and many of the persons attending the opening meeting were parents of adolescent and high school youngsters, and some were even young grandmothers.

The speaker is a well known child psychologist, a prominent P-TA state official and directs a number of parent study groups in Austin as well as several within a radius of 80 miles of Austin. She comes to Cameron free of charge through the Extension Department of the University of Texas and any person interested is cordially invited to attend her remaining lectures.

Use Sizing Chart

Know what is the correct size automatic gas water heater for your needs when talking with your appliance dealer or plumber. Use above "Sizing Chart."

Automatic dish-washers are big users of hot water. In doing the complete job they use three fillings: clean-off with lukewarm, actual washing with extra hot, and rinsing—all of which must be instantly on tap!

Then there are dozens of other household cleaning tasks, baths, showers, shaves, and cooking needs requiring hot water. So it is easy to see why it is most important to make sure the new gas automatic heater you buy is large enough to care for all your modern needs.

A modern gas automatic water heater of the proper size will provide you with all the hot water you need at a cost figured in pennies.

Think You've Got Troubles? Read This Subscriber's Woes

Recently one of our good subscribers to the Herald renewed his subscription. He also sent the Herald publisher the following letter explaining how it was possible:

"In reply to your request to send a check, I wish to inform you that the present condition of my bank account makes it almost impossible. My shattered financial condition is due to Federal laws, state laws, county laws, corporation laws, brother-in-laws, mother-in-laws, sister-in-laws and outlaws."

"Through these laws I am compelled to pay a business tax, amusement tax, head tax, school tax, gas tax, carpet tax, income tax, food tax, furniture tax and excise tax. Even my brains are taxed. I am required to get a business license, car license, hunting and fishing license, truck license and a dog license."

"I am also required to contribute to every society and organization which the genius of man is capable of bringing to life; to women's relief, the unemployment relief, the gold digger's relief. Also to every hospital and charitable institution in the city, including the Red Cross, the black cross, the purple cross and the double cross."

"For my own safety I am required to carry life insurance, property insurance, liability insurance, burglar insurance, accident insurance, business insurance, earthquake insurance, tornado insurance, unemployment insurance, old-age and fire insurance."

"My business is so governed it is no easy matter for me to find out who owns it. I am inspected, expected, suspected, disrespected, rejected, dejected, examined, re-examined, informed, required, summoned, fined, commanded and compelled until I provide an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need of the human race."

"Simply because I refuse to donate to something or other I am boycotted, talked about, lied about, held up, held down and robbed until I am almost ruined."

"I can tell you honestly that except for a miracle that happened, I could not enclose this check. The wolf that comes to many doors nowadays just had pups in my kitchen. I sold them and here is the money."

Lions Club Bringing Noted Magician Here Monday, February 3

A thrilling circus of mystery is promised local people when The Great Virgil, famous magician and Premier International Illusionist, and Julie, America's Sweetheart of Magic, bring their full company of wonder workers to the stage of the High School Auditorium February 3, afternoon and night.

Tons of equipment, baggage, birds and animals, and illusions far surpassing anything heretofore assembled on the stage, together with many gorgeous costumes, special lighting effects, and many changes of beautiful and costly scenery will be seen during the presentation of Virgil's elaborate mystical extravaganza.

Among the many novel features of this year's show will be the wholly new and grand entrance spectacle, in which witches and demons conjure up ghosts and goblins, and finally through the aid of the magic cauldron, the witch invokes the very spirit of satan himself, who appears in a sulphurous cloud in the center of the stage.

Children will be especially thrilled with the circus scenes wherein the laughable antics of clowns, comical ducks and chickens, and fascinating illusions especially created for this number constantly keep the audience enthraled and mystified.

The Mystery of the Jungle, in which The Great Virgil rescues the Leopard woman from horrific cannibals by causing her to vanish while suspended in mid-air, is but one of the hundreds of beautiful, spectacular, and thrilling mysteries of the past, present and future which Virgil has combined to make . . . "In All the World No Other Show Like This."

Actually more than $100,000 has been lavished on The Great Virgil's "Cavalcade of Mystery" which arrives here Monday for two performances at the High School Auditorium. Before commencing this season's tour, an additional $25,000 was spent in a few weeks by Virgil as technicians of illusionary are and scenic effects, and masters of sound equipment at Hollywood, New York, and Chicago were working at a breakneck pace in order to meet the deadline of August 15 when rehearsals began.

Hundreds of pounds of elaborate magical equipment and scenic effects will be used during the presentation of The Great Virgil's gigantic mystery production. A few of the dozens of perplexing mysteries that will be presented against a background of magnificent and costly stage settings are: "The Hindu Princess Asleep in Space," in which a beautiful girl, while under the power of the master, is caused to ascend into the air where she remains suspended without the means of any earthly support; "Sawing a Woman in Half," wherein a young lady, while held by members of the audience, will be literally severed into two separate parts; "Execution on Mars," during which Virgil enacts a fantastic drama which is climaxed by the firing of an examined and marked steel bullet from a high-powered rifle through the body of a young lady; and "The Houdini Trunk Mystery," during which The Great Virgil allows one of his attractive girl assistants to be tied in a strong sack and locked and roped in a trunk, then while being watched from all sides, and in less than one second, he changes places with the young lady. This one mystery, alone staggers the imagination and utterly defies solution.

TIGERS TAKE TIGERS IN FINAL AGAINST BELTON

Rockdale Tigers won the championship of the basketball tournament here Saturday night in the final over the Belton Tigers by a score of 29 to 17.

The boys from Rockdale came through from the beginning of the meet with increasing show of finesse and when the chips were down were able to walk away with the honors. The Tigers from Rockdale defeated Rosebud in the semi-finals.

Consolation finals were got under way Saturday afternoon when Hearne nosed out the Cameron Yoemen 34 to 33 in a close one. The score at the half was 19 to 11 but the Yoemen faded in the second half as the Eagles wiped out their lead and came away with a 1 point margin.

Franklin won from Georgetown in the opening semi-finals by a score of 28 to 34. It was McMukon again who led Franklin to victory and became the high point man of the tournament, scoring all 45 points.

In the semi-finals Rockdale defeated Rosebud 30 to 21 and Belton fought the Taylor Ducks to keep a perfect record in the tournament. The score was 28 to 25.

Hearne beat Franklin 35 to 33.

Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book" Big Husical on Cameron Screen Tues.

Comedy, music, romance and lavish production numbers are expertly woven together to make Republic's "Earl Carroll Sketchbook" which comes to the Cameron Theatre Tuesday, one of the best film musical to come out of Hollywood in recent months.

Constance Moore and William Marshall are starred in the light-hearted story of a composer who finds it more comfortable to write singing commercials in a penthouse than to struggle for recognition as a writer of great music.

Miss Moore is seen as the secretary, who, attempting to sell her boss's songs, instead becomes a singing star herself. Marshall as the composer, has his first singing role in films, and gives every indication of becoming the new bobby-sox rave. Spectacular dance routines are performed by Johnny Coy and Dorothy Babb, and new songs headed for the list of current hits, are written by Jule Styne and Sammy Cahn, one of Hollywood's most successful writing teams.

Bill Goodwin has the role of the harassed director and master-of-ceremonies of a musical show, Vera Vague is seen as a sophisticated, wise-cracking girl friend, Edward Everett Horton does the part of a vaudeville mind-reader who takes a turn at psychiatry, and Hillary Brooke is the beautiful "other woman" in the story.

"Black Angel" With Dan Duryea Leading to Open At Milam Tuesday

Dan Duryea's coming back to town and bringing June Vincent and Peter Lorre with him.

The new merchant of menace, who hit a new high for feminine fan mail on the strength of his work in "Woman In The Widow' 'and "Scarlet Street," will be starred for the first time in Universal's "Black Angel," which opens at the Milam Theatre Tuesday.

The melodrama initiates a somewhat new field for Duryea. Although he is still a heavy and manages to throw his weight around with considerable authority, he does not have a chance at romantic scenes with Miss Vincent in which he neither slaps nor kicks her. In fact, she is undecided about Duryea and he is seemingly unable to do anything about it. Action piles on action in the film which has one of the most notable surprise endings ever given a motion picture.

Miss Vincent returns to the screen and stardom after time off to have a baby. Lorre again comes through with one of those performances which have made him one of the most sought-after stars in Hollywood.

City Primary May Not Be Held Here

It was indicated that no city primary would be held in February this year since the custom has been in the past several years to forego a nomination formula for three members of the Board of Aldermen in the city government.

Lee McLane, Chairman of the Precinct Committee, said Monday he did not know whether any demand would be made for a primary but was of the opinion none would be held since that has been the custom for several years.

Anyone who wishes may run for Alderman in the general election in April. There is also a school trustee election to be held in April and these are all the political contests scheduled.

A majority of the Board of Aldermen of the city government are elected on off political years and rarely if ever have opposition.

Mrs. Alvin Allday of Rockdale visited in Cameron last week.

MILANO LEADS DISTRICT 58 BASKETBALL LEAGUE

District 58 Class B Basketball is getting red hot. With six teams participating this year for the first time it is rapidly developing into a fine contest.

Friday saw Thorndale taking the measure of Rockdale in a hard fought game at Thorndale by a score of 35 to 30. On Tuesday night of this week Rockdale smeared Sharp with a lopsided score of 53 to 23.

Milano on the same night managed to squeeze by Thorndale by a score of 33-30. While all this was going on Buckholts won over Snook by the score of 29-24.

The standings of each club so far in a ten game conference shows the following:

	Played	Won	Lost	percent
Milano	5	5	0	1000
Thorndale	5	3	2	600
Rockdale	5	3	2	600
Buckholts	4	2	2	500
Sharp	4	0	4	000
Snook	4	0	4	000

Both of Thorndale's losses have been to Milano and one to Rockdale's has also been to the same club. Right now it seems that Milano has the edge but the race is getting tighter each week and some interesting things may happen before the season closes on February 11.

FOUNDED FIRST ROTARY CLUB IN CHICAGO 1905

Paul P. Harris, 79, founder of Rotary, died shortly after midnight Monday at his surburban Morgan Park home in Chicago.

Harris, then an obscure lawyer, founded the first Rotary Club in Chicago on February 29, 1905. The organization now has more than 300,000 members and clubs in 75 countries of the world.

Mr. Harris had retired from practice as a corporation lawyer 10 years ago and had devoted much of his time to lectures and to writing for Rotary International. He is survived by his widow, Jean Harris.

In 1905 he called in a number of friends and talked over his plans for a service club. In the early beginning Harris felt the need of fellowship and found others in the big city who had the same desire and so from the first meeting held in his office, the first Rotary Club was founded.

Meetings were rotated from the offices of one member to another each week and this practice led to the name Rotary.

The organization, oldest of the service club movement, was later called Rotary International when it expanded to foreign countries.

Members of the Cameron Rotary Club two weeks ago devoted a program period to a recorded address by Mr. Harris on Rotary.

CELESTIAL MISSEL MAY HAVE FALLEN HERE

Early birds in Cameron were treated to a celestial spectacle Thursday morning January 23, according to E. R. Cornelius, local astronomer.

Amateur astronomers of Texas are searching for witnesses of a brilliant green meteor which spanned part of Oklahoma and Texas at 5:10 a. m. Thursday morning, January 23 and is believed to have ended in this region of Texas.

The astronomers desire to plot the path of the meteor from various observations and determine if any meteorites reached the ground.

Mr. Cornelius is to measure the Cornelius. If you hear a noise as if an explosion, felt the earth jar or your windows rattle it is certain you were experiencing the result of the celestial body striking the earth. and within a reasonable distance of your home.

Your interest and co-operation will be appreciated. The meteor was described as a green, dazzling ball of fire, by people at Wichita Falls and Fort Worth, said Mr. Cornelius.

T. P. & L. OFFER REFUSED—

Public Power Group Proceeds with WASTEFUL Spending of Federal Funds for UNNEEDED Power Facilities!

DIRECTORS of the Federally financed Brazos River Transmission Electric Cooperative have refused Texas Power & Light Company's offer to pay approximately $330,000 annually for electric power generated at Morris Sheppard Dam.

This means the Brazos River Transmission Coopgerative now proposes to carry out its program of spending more than $8,000,000 provided from the Federal Treasury to build transmission lines duplicating existing lines of private power companies and to construct two small steam electric plants where a full supply of electric power already exists.

The Brazos River Transmission Electric Cooperative, which is financed by Federal funds through REA at Washington, now purchases from the Brazos River Conservation and Reclamation District, an agency of the State of Texas, for $203,925 per year the output of the Morris Sheppard Dam. For four years the Texas Power & Light Company has purchased from the Brazos River Transmission Electric Cooperative all but a fractional part of the Morris Sheppard Dam electric power output. In turn, Texas Power & Light Company has sold power to the REA Distribution Cooperatives at rates lower than those of the Tennessee Valley Authority for this type of service, and at lower rates than it is reported the Brazos Transmission Electric Cooperative will be able to make available to the same REA Distribution Cooperatives after its plans are carried out.

The REA Distribution Cooperatives are doing a constructive job in making service available to farmers in rural areas, but there is no need for the Transmission Cooperative. It does not and never has served directly any farmers and has not met any constructive need that could not be met better and more economically by existing facilities.

CLAIMS vs. FACTS

1. The Transmission Cooperative claims, "Acute power shortages in the Southwest are resulting in TP&L Company lines being overloaded."

THE FACT: There is not now and never has been any power shortage in the area served by Texas Power & Light Company. Every power requirement of every customer in this area has been met by TP&L for 35 years.

2. The Transmission Cooperative claims, "Inadequate service of TP&L is resulting in undue hardship to farmers who are members of the Distribution Cooperatives served by the Company."

THE FACT: The few cases of inadequate service are due to the electrical losses in the very long lines of the REA Distribution Cooperatives. The remedy is additional points of delivery from the Company's system to shorten the distances between the power sources and the ultimate customers. Dozens of such additional points of delivery have been made available and others offered. The almost unlimited number of delivery points that can be made available from more than 13,000 miles of Company owned electric lines represents a great advantage to the REA Distribution Cooperatives as compared to the service that would be offered from the limited facilities of the Transmission Cooperative.

3. The Transmission Cooperative claims, "There is a growing need of the Cooperatives to receive service from a system designed solely for the purpose of serving rural loads."

THE FACT: Since 1913, the Texas Power & Light Company has pioneered in the extension of rural service in Texas. Separate, small-scale generating and transmission systems such as the Brazos Transmission Cooperative proposes cannot be constructed economically to serve only rural customers.

4. The Transmission Cooperative claims, "The (Brazos Transmission) Cooperative feels that it would be violating every public trust reposed in it by the Brazos River Reclamation and Conservation District if it renewed the TP&L contract."

THE FACT: At a time when the public debt is at the present staggering total, there appears to be no violation of public trust nor anything contrary to the public interest in saving eight million dollars or more of Federal funds, when through such a saving a plan is utilized that brings to the farmers of Texas better electric service at lower costs to them.

5. The Transmission Cooperative claims, "The Company seeks to destroy competition . . . the farmers of Texas have been able to obtain wholesale rate reductions in their power costs of 1¢ per kilowatt-hour because of competition offered by Cooperatives."

THE FACT: The Texas Power & Light Company's present low rates to the REA Distribution Cooperatives are the result of direct negotiations with the Rural Electrification Administration at Washington, and with the local REA Distribution Cooperatives. The Transmission Cooperative has never had any part in this rate program.

President Truman Urges REA Spending Be Held Down...

President Truman has stated that "The Federal Government should not compete with private industry for scarce materials, neither should it compete in any area for scaree labor. To do so is to add to inflationary pressures and, in effect, to retard reconversion. . . . In view of the importance of curtailing Federal expenditures to decrease inflationary pressures, and in view of the magnitude of the Federal financial participation in the Rural Electrification Administration program, it is important that expenditures for this program also be held to a minimum." Under such an admonition it certainly appears the part of prudence to withhold such expenditures as above described which will not bring any financial advantage to the REA Distribution Cooperatives.

The Texas Power & Light Company has offered, voluntarily and in good faith, new contracts similar to those under which for four years it has purchased electric power generated at the Morris Sheppard Dam on the Brazos River, and has adequately and economically delivered electric power to REA Distribution Cooperatives at rates that are among the lowest in the nation. This offer has been refused in favor of new Federal expenditures for the construction of unneeded, competitive power facilities, which will undoubtedly result in higher rates to the REA Distribution Cooperatives and will serve NOT ONE farmer that would not otherwise be served. The funds that would be required for building unnecessary duplicate facilities should be used to build distribution lines to make electric service available to a greater number of Texas farmers.

This message is published for your information, with the thought that the citizens and users of electric power who will be affected have a right to know the facts and should be informed regarding this matter.

PUBLIC SPENDING—

Yet the backers and employees and polictial representatives of these socialized enterprises will make a determined drive for enormous appropriations for the construction of new transmission lines and general facilities, on the grounds that there is a great power shortage—or that a power shortage is iminent. And that would be a good place for Congress to use its investigating powers. It would give them some very interesting information. The alleged power shortage and the ardent desire to serve the rural people might prove amonb the least of the incentives for a lot of tax payers money to build competitive and paralleling transmission power lines.

In the case of the Texas loan, and perhaps practically all others of a similar nature, such projects do not will not and cannot provide anything that would not be provided by regulated, privately financed, heavily taxed private utilities—if those utilities were allowed to go ahead with the assurance that they would be permitted to keep on doing business. Last year saw remarkable progress by the electric industry and in the face of many obstacles. The industry is now involved in the greatest rural electrification program in history—and is providing service at a record low rate in spite of record high wages and material costs and taxes.

The attitude of Congress should be as promised last fall—and a simple one to follow: Not a penny will be appropriated for new tax execpt government owned, power facilities in any area where private utilities are able to do the job. That alone would save the tax payers billions—and take us a long way toward maximum economy in government.

The TP&L Co. and the TELCO laid all these facts before Mr. Wickard, and gave him facts and figures to prove that they were able to supply the electricity, and even at a lower rate than would be done even with government operated money. They offered to work with REA, which they are now doing—and with a satisfactory contract to supply electric current over their transmission lines. Detail facts and figures were given—but evidently "political pressure" insisted that the money be made available and more government subsides be set up in competition to free enterprise.

Perhaps it is the same political pressure that came back in 1941, when the Brazos River Reclamation and Conservation District advertised for bids on the electric output of the Morris Sheppard Dam in Palo Pinto County, the TP&L Co. bid $306,000 a year for the power—and the Brazos Co-ops bid was for $203,935—and at the insistence and threats made to the directors of the Brazos District, they were forced to sell to the Co-ops, taking over a $100,000 a year loss. It was at the meeting of the District directors that Congressman Poage told them that "you Brazos District people can not turn the government down one day and expect to get a hearing later when you come to Washington howling for funds to build more dams."

Congressman Poage's reference to such funds was some $30,000,000 that the Brazos C. & R. District was asking for dams to control the flood waters of the Brazos. Later in the meeting, when board members objected to the loss of money on the contract, and asked Congressman Poage if the matter could not be retarded until they could come to Washington for a hearing, Mr. Poage replied: "You might as well save the railroad fare, if you turn this contract down, and come to Washington you might not be insulted, but you certainly would not get an attentive ear." He then concluded by telling the Brazos directors that "too many of the gentlemen are looking at this thing from a business standpoint and not from the standpoint of the government."

And so the Brazos District, attempting to do a constructive job for the land owners in the southern part of Texas and to curtail the enormous number of lives lost and property damages, are still "taking a whipping"—over $500,000 they have already lost on the Poage-forced contract, money that would have served them well in the construction of more dams. And, incidentally, they haven't received money yet to build another dam since the meeting with Mr. Poage and the REA committee back in 1941.

It might be well to know also that the REA, purchasing the Morris Sheppard dam output, in turn sold it to the Texas Power & Light Co., for $300,000 per year, reserving 3,000 kilowatts of power and 18,000,000 kilowatt hours per year for its own use.

The $5,200,000 is an addition to the $11,000,000 already loaned to the Co-operatives in Texas by the federal government—and it is stated that the rate of interest is 2 per cent.

In a recent letter made public, written to Mr. Wickard by John W. Carpenter, president of TP&L Co., the company stated:

A proposed agreement made to the Districution Co-ops by the TP&L Co., would make unnecessary the $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 for transmission lines and steam electric plants; it would insure all requirements of power wanted and at a rate lower than the rural people are paying for power bought from the transmission Co-ops—rates lower than those of the TVA or the LCRA; it would insure continued purchase of power from the Brazos Morris Sheppard Dam, the TP&L making a net payment to the co-ops of $330,000 a year—or $30,000 a year more than is now being paid to them; it would make energy to your distribution cooperatives lower than if the power were supplied over your own transmission network; it would make it unnecessary for the Co-ops to use any government funds for building additional transmission lines or steam power plants.

And talking of a socialized government and free enterprise—how soon will the government be in your business? They are already in the printing business—started back some 35 or 40 years ago—the first venture of government competition; today they are in the banking business, loan business, the insurance business, transportation, and a dozen others.

It is time for the government to get out of business. Surely, give the rural people electricity and at a low rate—and if private enterprise can not reach them, then there is a time for government grants. Not government competition.

It is good for those who have big paying jobs in government subsidies—fat salaries as presidents, managers, attorneys, expense to meetings, engineers—and some times graft. But it is another thing for the poor old tax payer footing the bill—and he certainly "gets it in the neck" every time politics and government money and promoters get their heads together.
